

October 13, 2021

To Our Valued Customers,

Campbell Soup Company continues to navigate an extremely challenging environment as COVID persists. As a result of these macroeconomic challenges, our ability to maintain normal service levels has been significantly impacted across our foodservice business. Further to our October 4th update regarding our thermal soup portfolio, this dynamic situation is also impacting our Snacks business resulting in some additional changes.

Effective immediately, we will be temporarily discontinuing items from our Snacks portfolio listed in the attachment. We anticipate this temporary discontinuance to be effective until at least the end of January for most products.

Please note, snack products not on the list are available but may have intermittent supply.

Our teams are doing everything they can to mitigate our supply and labor situation. Your Campbell sales representative will work closely with you to help manage through these changes and we will continue to do our best to service your needs.

As always, we appreciate your understanding during this challenging time and are grateful for your partnership.

Sincerely,

Kevin Matier
